Health in Seymour

Crossroads Research Study 2016-2018

Seymour Health and The University of Melbourne, Department of Rural Health invite you to a community feedback session of the key findings of the 2016-2018 Crossroads Research Study for Seymour.

Crossroads is one of the most detailed health studies undertaken in rural Australia providing vital health data to local services for service planning and improvement in the region and to attract funding to help meet local needs.

This research was funded by the NHMRC and local health and community partners, including Seymour Health, Goulburn Valley

Health, Primary Care Connect, Benalla Health, Cobram District Health, Moira Shire, Goulburn Valley Primary Care Partnerships, Shepparton Access, City of Greater Shepparton, Alfred Health and The University of Melbourne, Department of Rural Health.

We thank all participants in the study who generously gave their time and shared their experiences and to the partners for their support, cooperation and direction of this project.

Please come and hear about the key findings of this study, network with others in population health and enjoy a light afternoon tea.

Please register to assist with catering.
